AI in Compliance: From Generative to Agentic

A full-day workshop for senior compliance and legal leaders

September 23 | Washington, DC | 9:00 AM - 4:45 PM

Generative AI is already reshaping how compliance teams work. Autonomous agentic systems that can execute those workflows are coming fast. This workshop brings together the technical architects building those tools, governance experts, legal specialists, and senior compliance practitioners working through all of it in real time. In one full day, under Chatham House Rule, participants will explore what AI can do in compliance today, see autonomous agents in action through a live demonstration, and hear from recognized experts on what governance and legal risk look like as the technology advances.
